

Access to patients in Europe starts with us.

Reaching Europe's 6M patient market is key to improving outcomes and unlocking value from the $113bn spent on speciality medicines, a market expected to grow c.5% annually to 2028.

We want to help you be a part of this growing market.

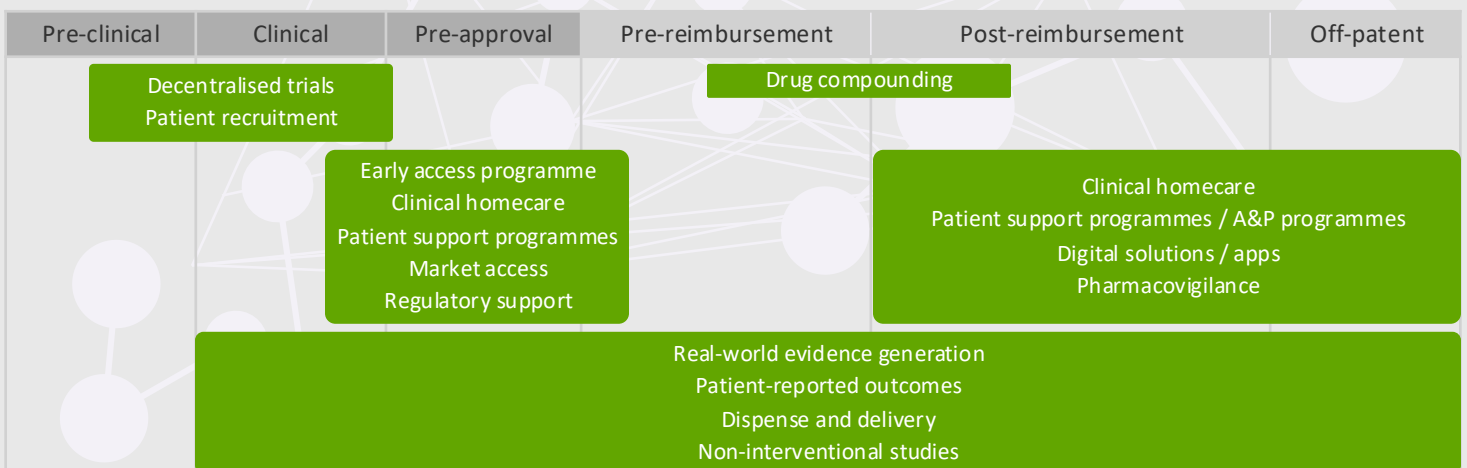

Who we are

Sciensus is a proven life sciences solutions partner with more than 30 years' experience in navigating and unlocking the complex European healthcare ecosystem to maximise patient reach.

We help accelerate the development journey, bringing products into the market and directly to patients to improve outcomes. We act as a centralised hub providing a wide range of support services, from de-centralised trial support including patient recruitment to early access programs, from compounding to distribution and product delivery, to skilled in-home care and data collection of real-world evidence and patient reported outcomes; we have the resources you need to commercialise your therapies in Europe.

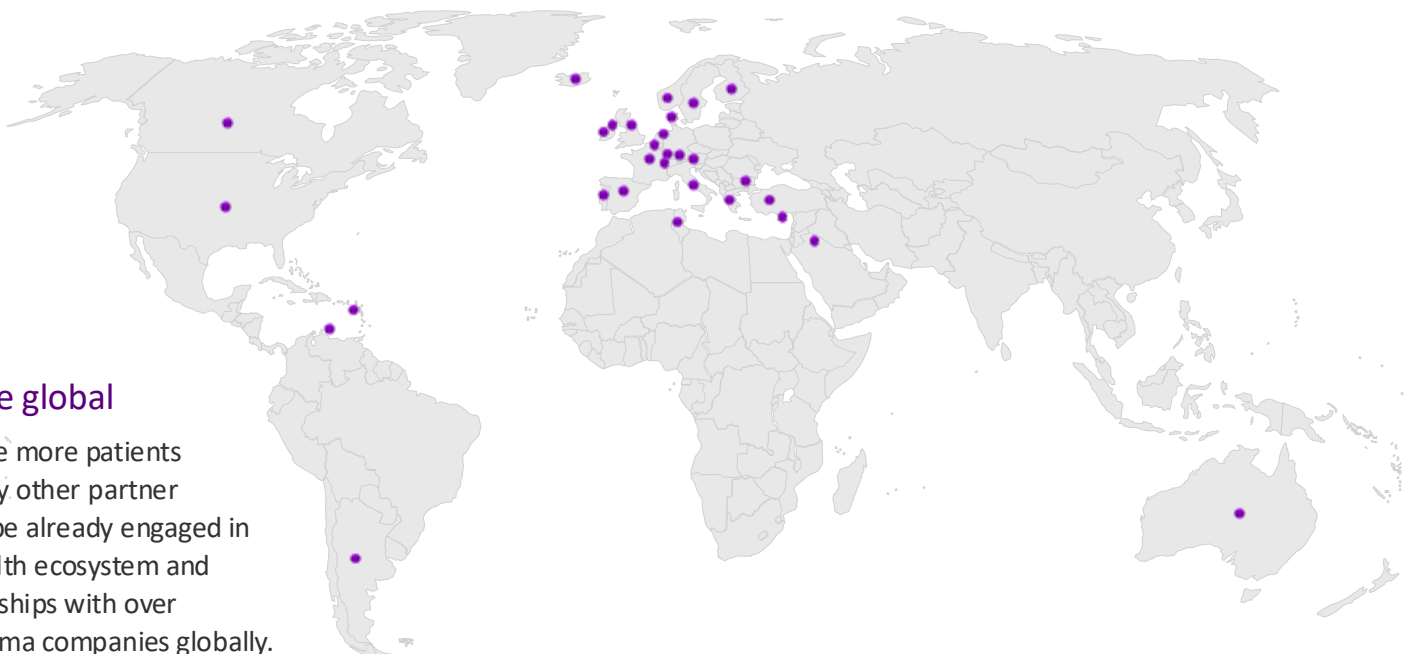

How we help

We deliver cutting-edge patient engagement programmes for clinical trials and commercial products, powered by digital support solutions that enable the collection and utilisation of real-world data to maximise your product's value and impact for patients.

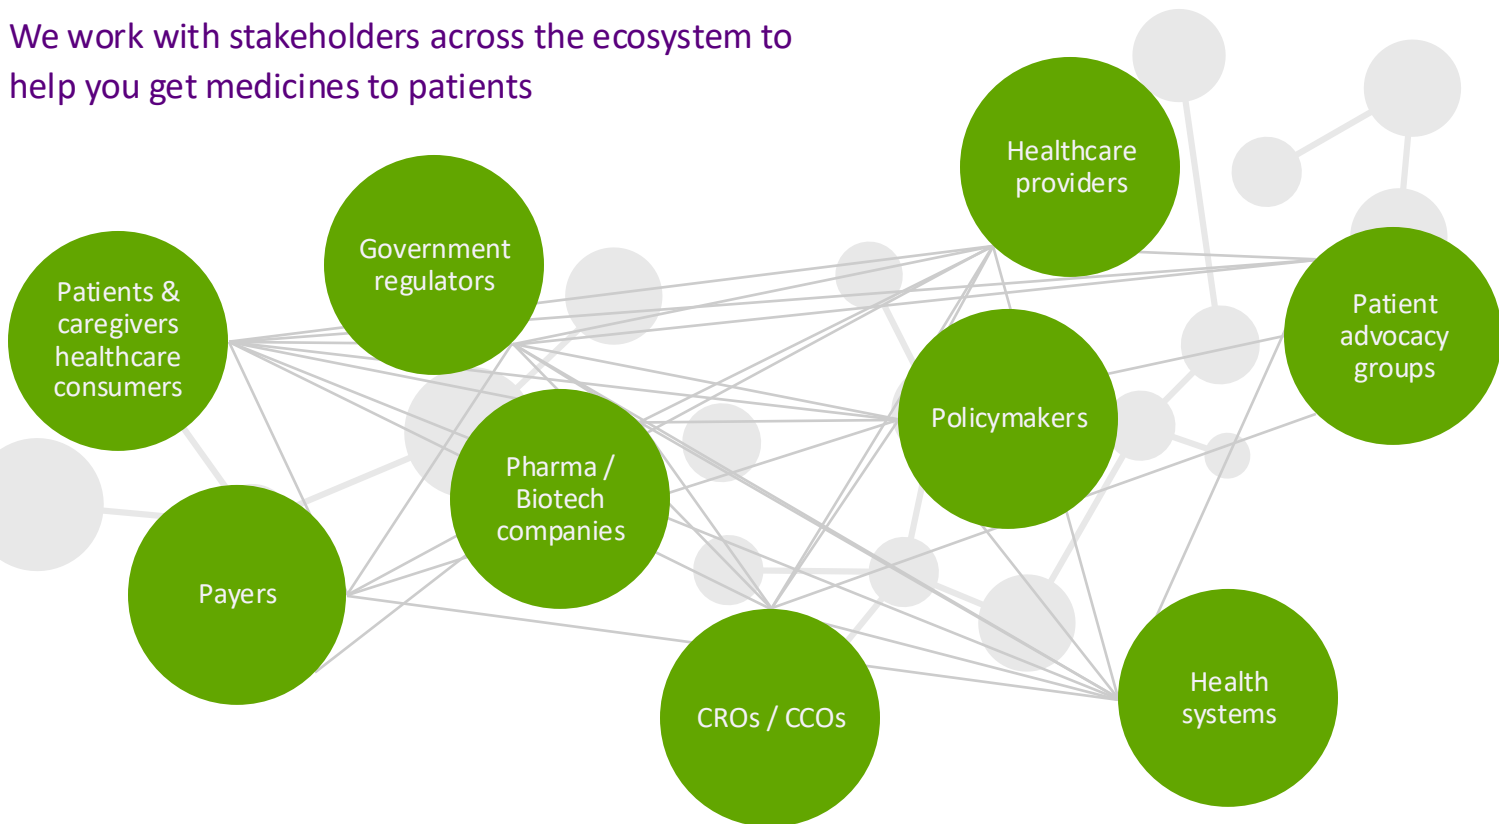

We are global

We have more patients than any other partner in Europe already engaged in the health ecosystem and relationships with over 50 pharma companies globally.

We work with stakeholders across the ecosystem to help you get medicines to patients

“As a strategic partner, they have exceeded our expectations by finding global patients, who need our drugs, and enabling them to receive their life-extending medications.”
