

Access to patients in Europe starts with us.

There are 6 million patients across Europe who need a speciality medicine but expansion into this complex market can be challenging. Sciensus bridges this gap to improve patient health outcomes and unlock value from the $113bn spent on speciality medicines, a market expected to grow c.5% annually to 2028.

We want to help you be a part of this growing market.

Who we are

Sciensus is a proven life sciences solutions partner with more than 30 years' experience in navigating and unlocking the complex European healthcare ecosystem to maximise patient reach.

We help accelerate the development journey, bringing products into the market and directly to patients to improve outcomes. We act as a centralised hub providing a wide range of support services, from early access programmes to non-interventional studies, from PASS to decentralised trial support, from compounding to distribution and product delivery, to skilled in-home care and data collection of real-world evidence and patient reported outcomes.

We have the resources you need to commercialise your therapies in Europe.

How we help

We deliver cutting-edge patient engagement programmes for clinical trials and commercial products, powered by digital support solutions that enable the collection and utilisation of real-world data to maximise your product's value and impact for patients.

Unlocking access to Europe

Sciensus is the leading European hub of integrated commercial services with 30 years' experience in navigating the complex European healthcare ecosystem to maximise patient access to medicines, product launches and full commercialisation.

We work with stakeholders across the ecosystem to help you get medicines to patients

"As a strategic partner, they have exceeded our expectations by finding global patients, who need our drugs, and enabling them to receive their life-extending medications."

Chief Commercial Officer at leading US Biotech company
